

Parkinson's NSW is a trusted for-purpose organisation striving to make life better for people living with Parkinson's, their families, and carers.

Parkinson's NSW provides essential services and programs:

- Counselling services
- Network of Support Groups across the state, which deliver judgement-free peer support for people living with Parkinson's and their care partners
- Information Line service staffed by Registered Parkinson's Nurses and specialist health professionals
- Parkinson's Nurse specialists placed in rural & regional areas of NSW
- Education and information programs
- Undertakes advocacy and community fundraising campaigns
- Government relations
- Community outreach and awareness raising